Effective January 2026, the proprietary notional value was increased to $250,000 to include the crypto sector. The offered World Select Commodity 1X program requires a $250,000 minimum notional value, a 1.5% management fee, and a 15% incentive fee. Proprietary performance is presented for illustrative purposes only and is prominently labeled as such. While the advisor believes there are no material differences in the trading approach between past client performance, the proprietary account, and the expected performance of the offered program, differences may exist due to factors such as funding levels, risk parameters, execution, leverage, or other account-specific considerations. All performance is presented net of applicable fees unless otherwise stated. Clients trading the offered program may experience different results.
